(XLVIIIth YEAR.) THE (No. 2550.)

MARYLAND GAZETTE.

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 13, 1792.

LEYDEN, September 24.

We have advice from Coblentz, dated the 8th, that a meſſenger who juſt arrived there, with accounts that the duke of Brunſwick, after a forced march, had attacked the army of Marſhal Luckner on the 16th, between Menehould and Chalons, and entirely beaten it; killed 6000 men, and taken 8000 priſoners; that the conquerors took the camp, all the artillery, baggage, &c. and that the remains of the vanquiſhed army were purſued to Chalons. We anxiouſly wait for a confirmation and particulars of this event.

Sept. 28. The fears at firſt conceived by the friends of the French revolution here, on a report of the army of Dumouriez being defeated, have entirely ſubſided; the intelligence is now proved to have been falſe. It is at preſent reported, that Rheims and Chalons are in the hands of the enemy, and that Liſle and Valenciennes are taken; but this appears to be equally unfounded. It is, however, certain, that both theſe places are beſieged.

A number of papers are now circulated here, which aſſert, that the principal promoters of the revolution in France are providing a retreat in one of the iſlands of the Grecian Archipelago, which they intend to purchaſe from the Turks in caſe any misfortune ſhould happen; and that their deſign is to fit out every veſſel belonging to the ſtate which may be in a condition to go to ſea, and to carry all the gold and ſilver out of the kingdom. They have already, as is pretended, ſeized on all the crown jewels, and their endeavours to diſcover the robbers are only a mere deception to amuſe the public.

Many people believe theſe reports, and they are often mentioned in the public journals. It is probable, however, that theſe accounts are printed and diſperſed with a view to alarm the holders of French ſtock, and to bring diſgrace upon the revolution.

FRANKFORT, September 18.

It is confidently ſaid, that a congreſs is ſoon to be opened for the pacification of the powers now at war, and that it will be held at Luxembourg, or ſome other town upon the frontiers. The miniſters talked of for this congreſs are, baron Speilman for Vienna, marquis de Lucchesini for Pruſſia, M. de Simolin for Ruſſia, and lord Elgin for England.

From the LOWER ELBE, September 21.

A courier is ſaid to have paſſed through Coblentz with accounts of the total defeat of the French army by the 16th, by the combined forces under the duke of Brunſwick.

M. de la Fayette, and three of his brother officers, arrived at Weſel yeſterday, under a ſtrong eſcort, where they are ſaid to be placed in cloſe and ſeparate confinement in the citadel, and not ſuffered to ſee any perſon whatever.

PARIS, September 30.

TUMULT at TOULON.

The following is a letter from Toulon, dated September 12.

"A plan of a counter-revolution diſcovered itſelf ſeveral days ſince. Unfortunate perſons confined in priſon, forced with ſabres in their hands, the gaoler, and thoſe malefactors, who were in number 1500 perſons, ſpread themſelves in bands over the city, and gave riſe to well-founded fears. The council-general of the community aſſembled immediately, ordered the gates of the town to be ſhut, the generale to beat, and freed the galley-priſoners, who, upon interrogation, anſwered, that arms, and the means of enſuring their liberty, had been promiſed them.

"The authors of this movement were alſo arreſted and impriſoned. They were interrogated, and declared guilty of conſpiracy; yeſterday they were hanged. M. Flotte, commandant of marine, and M. Belchmaure, captain of a veſſel, met the ſame fate. There are ſtill in the priſons many officers, accuſed of having refuſed to take arms on the day of tumult."

SECRET EXPEDITION.

M. Barbaroux, on Wedneſday, communicated the following intelligence to the national convention:—

"M. Anſelme at Marſeilles, had demanded of the city 6000 men, a million of money, and ſome veſſels for a ſecret expedition. He would not tell where he was to go, but, if the city would intruſt him, he ſhould hereafter give a good account of himſelf. The men, the veſſels and the million, were all immediately granted him.

"It was moved, and immediately decreed, that four millions of aſſignats, and one in ſpecie, ſhould be ſent to the departments of Bouches de la Rhone; and the city of Marſeilles was declared to have deſerved well of their country.

INSURRECTION in FLANDERS.

"An expedition by the French into Flanders has been for ſome time known to be meditating.

A letter from Liſle, the authenticity of which we will, however, not guarantee, has been received in Paris, announcing the capture of Ypres, Menin and Courtray, from the Auſtrians, by general Carles, who commands a detachment from Dunkirk.

It appears certain, that ſome expedition has been made by the French into the territory of the Auſtrians in that neighbourhood.

The community of Paris have required two millions for the ſupport of the maiſon du ſoyers. Their demand produced ſome debate in the national convention, and much ſuſpicion, as to the uſe of the former ſums voted, which called up M. Petion in their defence; they were ordered to give an account, within three days, of their late expenditures in this reſpect.

The municipal officers appointed to guard the king in the temple, have propoſed to the council-general to decree, that the grand oruſſes embroidered in gold upon the royal veſtments, the red riband, and all the other ſigns of feudality, ſhall be prohibited to Louis the ſixteenth.

The aſſembly determining to refute all ſuſpicions relative to the ſafety of letters, have reſolved, that from the firſt of October, each perſon delivering a letter, ſhall receive upon demand, a ticket with a number upon it, which number ſhall be inſcribed upon the letter. The giving the ticket renders the directors reſponſible for the letter. All letters which contain valuables, they deſire may be ſealed at each end.

NATIONAL CONVENTION.

SATURDAY MORNING, September 29.

Marſhal Luckner ſent a letter to the convention, juſtifying himſelf from the aſperſions thrown out againſt him in the ſitting of the 27th ultimo. To the charge made againſt him of having left the incendiary Jarry unpuniſhed, he replied, that the court-martial of the army of the north was not organized; that there was neither a commiſſary of ſtores, nor a commiſſary of accounts; and, that he had requeſted the miniſter at war, but in vain, to appoint ſuch officers.

"When I ſet out for the Belgian Netherlands," added he, "I was aſſured, that I ſhould be joined by 30 or 40,000 men; but I remained there fourteen days without ſeeing one of them. I, however, continued at Courtray, from which I wrote to the miniſter, entreating him to ſend me a reinforcement, that I might either maintain my poſt, or march againſt Ghent, which I could not do without more troops, becauſe the enemy, who were on my flank at Tournay, would infallibly have cut off my retreat."

He concluded by obſerving, that his papers were among his baggage, which would arrive next week, and that he would then lay before the commiſſioners the different letters he had received from the miniſters.

LIVERPOOL, September 15.

Extract of a letter from Liſle.

"The officers who were accuſed of treachery in giving up Longwy, to the arms of the duke of Brunſwick, have undergone a trial, and been ſentenced to receive the following exemplary puniſhment; to be buried up to the necks in the earth, and to have fires kindled upon their head till they are entirely burnt off; which we hope will prevent others from following their villainous example."

Would not a perſon think that humanity had fled from France, and hell with all its powers, had taken poſſeſſion of it?

LONDON, September 28.

Several thouſand ſtands of arms are ſaid to have been landed in the north of Ireland, and immediately carried to the mountains, for what purpoſe has not yet been diſcovered. There was a gentleman murdered on board the ſhip by which they were imported, becauſe he would not ſwear ſecrecy. All this was diſcovered by a mariner belonging to the veſſel.

At Market-Harborough church, on Sunday laſt (by way of prelude to the ſermon), the clerk roſe, and with an audible voice mentioned, as how he was deſired to call a vestry to meet at five o'clock in the afternoon, and conſult about admitting a company of players into the town. The ſingularity of ſuch an oration in a church, together with the comicality of the orator, threw the congregation into an immoderate fit of laughter.

Extract of a letter from Liſle, dated September 27.

"We are abſolutely ſurrounded by the enemy, and all the roads are intercepted. The cannonading was kept up all day yeſterday from both parties; that of the beſieged, as well as the beſiegers. We had five men killed by one ball. We ſee the enemy from the ramparts carrying of their dead in waggons. We ſet fire yeſterday to part of the ſuburbs; and enabled the enemy to approach nearer to the wall."

In all the places hitherto conquered, the king of Pruſſia has diſtributed orders nearly ſimilar to the following:

"The directors of the diſtrict of [illegible] is ordered to repair to [illegible] the keys of [illegible] the archives, and to ſurrender all the titles of property, and any others, belonging to the ſaid archives, and alſo to break all the ſeals which may have been placed upon them. The officers of the directory are collectively and individually declared reſponſible for all the papers which may have been taken away. The preſent order ſhall be executed within twenty-four hours.

"Given at ——, the —— day of ——, 1792."

October 1, Count Guillaume de Wirgenſtein, who, after having raiſed a regiment for the army of the French princes, was arreſted at Francfort at the coronation of the emperor, and conducted to Coblentz, where he was confined two months, has been found innocent, and in conſequence ſet at liberty.

Oct. 2. At the ſame time that the court of London declines to take any active part in the troubles of France, the electorate of Hanover, as a member of the empire, furniſhes its quota of troops to the Imperial army. In the reign of George II. Hanover was obliged to furniſh its proportion of an Imperial army deſtined to act againſt the ſovereign of that principality.

Letters received from Oſtend, dated September 24, advife, that 30,000 Auſtrians, from the duke of Saxe Teſchen's army, were marched, with a train of heavy artillery, to lay ſiege to Liſle. This place, if properly defended by a garriſon of 20,000 (for ſo many are required to defend it fully) would hold out long againſt 100,000 men; but the preſent garriſon conſiſts of no more than 8,000 men, many of them new recruits, and the chief of the inhabitants are in the ariſtocratic intereſt. It is doubtleſs on a knowledge of theſe circumſtances, that the Auſtrians attempt the ſiege with ſo incompetent a force. Dunkirk will ſoon fall to them if attacked, as I hear they have only about 800 men ill provided and diſciplined for its defence.

The Canton of Berne, in Switzerland, has ordered a public mourning for fifteen days, on account of the defeat and ſlaughter of the Swiſs guards at Paris on the 10th of Auguſt. During this time all the public ſpectacles are to be ſhut up.

A violent ſtorm has been felt in Hungary, which began on the 7th of September, and continued for forty hours. The deſtruction was great at Preſburg, Tyrnau and ſeveral other towns, where the lightning deſtroyed a conſiderable part of the houſes.

Extract of a letter from Oſtend, 29th September.

"From the combined army, under the command of the duke of Brunſwick, we have this day received very great and authentic news. After the defeat of Dumouriez and Kellerman's army, the French evacuated Chalons, and the duke of Brunſwick took poſſeſſion of it on the 22d inſtant; on the 24th Rheims ſurrendered; and when theſe accounts came away, the advanced guard of his army was at Meaux, about twelve leagues from Paris, where it is expected to be early in October.

"This afternoon, a letter was ſent expreſs to our magiſtrates from Bruſſels, bearing the important intelligence, that general Dumouriez's army, conſiſting of 25,000 men, have been ſurrounded by the Auſtrians, and have been neceſſitated to lay down their arms, and ſurrender at diſcretion. This we have little reaſon to doubt the truth of, as it comes from a reſpectable quarter."

Another account ſays, "that the combined armies, under the command of the duke of Brunſwick, had completely ſurrounded the French army, commanded by M. Dumouriez, who had offered to give up his artillery and baggage, on being allowed to march to Paris with his arms.

"This was refuſed, and it was inſiſted that he ſhould lay down his arms.—This happened on the 24th of laſt month. The expreſs with the account arrived at Bruſſels the 28th.

"It was not then known whether Dumouriez would ſubmit, or make an ineffectual attempt to fight his way through—the former muſt probably, will be the reſult of his determination."

Extract of a letter from Treves, September 14.

"We learn that the events which have taken place at Paris, have determined the king of Pruſſia not to return to Berlin as he intended, but to puſh forward in good earneſt to the capital of France with his army; and we are further aſſured that to accelerate their march, orders have been given for each horſeman to take a foot ſoldier by turns behind him. The reaſon why that monarch wiſhes to reach Paris as ſoon as poſſible is, that he foreſees the firſt buſineſs of the national convention will be to proceed to the trial of the king and royal family."

BOSTON, November 14.

The king of Great-Britain has refuſed to recognize France as a republic; in conſequence all official communications with the French ambaſſador at London have ceaſed.

In the title of their firſt functionary, the French republicans have ſuppreſſed their allies of the United States. M. Gudonet declined preſident of France.

We are informed, that there are agents in the United States, commissioned by societies in Ireland, and elsewhere, to make large purchases of lands. The property, therefore, which this commonwealth holds in the district of Maine, may rapidly appreciate—situated, as it is, on an extensive sea coast, and removed so far from the distresses of the wilderness.

NEW-YORK, November 24.

The scarlet and putrid fevers rage with great violence in this city; they are very contagious, as is always the case with such fevers, and generally prove fatal to those who are attacked; not being confined to any particular description of people, but both old and young equally feel their malignant effects.

AUGUSTA, (Georgia) November 17.

On Monday last, the circuit court of the United States for this district, was opened by the honourable Thomas Johnson, one of the associate justices of the supreme court of the United States, and the honourable Nathaniel Pendleton, district judge of this district.

Four persons, who sailed from Boston to the island of Martinique, and from thence to Savanna, in May last, were indicted and tried for stealing on the high seas, near the island of Martinique, a number of negroes, belonging to the inhabitants of that island; Samuel Skinner, of Boston, who was supercargo of the vessel, and who appeared to be the principal, was found guilty by the jury, on his own confession, upon the 16th section of the law for the punishment of certain crimes against the United States, and was sentenced to receive thirty-nine lashes, to pay a fine of one hundred dollars, all lawful charges of the prosecution, and to stand committed till the sentence was complied with. The other three prisoners, to wit: Nathaniel Hickman, Robert Watts, and Nathaniel Ridgeway, were acquitted. The court sat four days, during which time several civil causes were tried, and a general satisfaction seemed to prevail. We hear that judge Blair, was to have rode the southern circuit, but the indisposition of his family prevented it.

Samuel Skinner, pursuant to the above-mentioned sentence, was, on Wednesday last, publicly whipped at the market-house in this town.

KNOXVILLE, November 3.

Since our last, a troop of horse, commanded by captain James Richardson, and several companies of foot, composing the brigade under the command of general Sevier, have arrived in town. The general is now in camp, and, we are happy to add, is in a better state of health than he has been for some months past.

The orderly and regular behaviour of these troops, since their arrival in this town, has gained them the highest honour; and we have every reason to hope that from the activity, bravery, and good conduct of this army, our bleeding country will be well supported and defended, and perhaps entirely relieved from the bloody, barbarous, and unrelenting hands of merciless savages.

Late accounts from the Cherokees say, that that nation, aided by the Creeks, have positively determined to erect three stockade forts, with block-houses; one at the confluence of the Tenessee and Clinch rivers, the second at Running Water town on the Tenessee, and the third at the Creek crossing place, near the Muscle shoals, by which means they expect to be able and convenient to continue, occasionally, their hostile depredations on any part of our southwestern territory.

PHILADELPHIA, December 5.

INTELLIGENCE from CAPE-FRANCOIS.

Nov. 3. The commander in chief, d'Esparbes, and the proscribed, have sailed for France. The civil commissioners have signified to them, that they were not to be considered as in a state of arrest; but required them, at the same time, to appear before the national convention, within a month after their landing.

Rochambeau, the provisional commander, left this yesterday for Ocranamiathe, which he goes to attack. The West Cordon is to make an attack on their side at the same time.

Note—M. Rochambeau had left France as commander of Martinico, the inhabitants of which island, being unwilling to receive him, he landed at the Cape, where the national commissioners have appointed him to succeed M. d'Esparbes.

Extract from a letter dated Amsterdam, September 27, 1792, received by the Chesterfield packet.

"The French affairs grow daily more serious; the Prussian army has advanced beyond Chalons, which was the principal rendezvous of the French, who retreated in great disorder.—The duke of Brunswick approaches Paris, by slow and cautious marches, and it is imagined he will reach it about the 1st of October; rides and the most abominable measures continue in that devoted city. As the Prussians approach, it is expected the mob will become more outrageous, that the murder of the king and queen cannot be prevented, and that the city will probably be plundered and destroyed. The new national convention has assembled and declared itself constituent and supreme, they however submit to the mob in every thing, and sanction their vile proceedings. The armies have had several actions, in which the undisciplined French have been generally worsted. As the friend of liberty, I weep over the fate of that unhappy people."

PETERSBURG, November 29.

By a gentleman arrived in Richmond from the south-western territory, we have accounts from that quarter to the 12th instant, from which we learn—That on the 4th instant, there arrived at Knoxville, eight Indians from the Cherokee nation, three of whom were principal chiefs. The object of their visit was to hold a talk with governor Blount; to assure him of the pacific disposition of their nation, and to request that they might be suffered to hunt without molestation—That on the 15th a party of Indians stole eight horses from Gamble's station, about twelve miles from Knoxville—That on the 16th two regiments of territorial troops, under the command of colonel Landon Carter, and colonel Gilbert Christian, marched from Knoxville, to guard the frontiers and to build forts and stations between the Papo Ford and the junction of the Clinch and Tenessee.—On the same day general Sevier, pursued his route from Knoxville, escorted by a troop of horse, commanded by captain James Richardson, to take the command of the frontier army, amounting from 12 to 1500 men—That on the 18th the house of Ebenezer Bryan, on Beaver creek, seven miles from Knoxville, was attacked by a party of fifteen Cherokee Indians, two of whom were killed, and the rest made off.
